

COMING TO THE THEATERS

National—Mary Manning in "The Stubbornness of Geraldine."

Mary Manning in Clyde Fitch's new comedy, "The Stubbornness of Geraldine," will begin a week's engagement at the National Theater Monday evening.

Miss Manning's play this season comes with the indorsement of a two months' run at the Garrick Theater, New York. It is described as a sparkling comedy of present-day social life, pure and wholesome in tone, and filled with the acute character-drawing characteristics of Clyde Fitch. It is a love story and the stubbornness of the heroine is only another name for her fidelity to the man of her choice, in this case a much misunderstood Hungarian nobleman, acted by Arthur Byron.

The staging of the piece is said to be handsome in every detail. Miss Manning's role is said to fit her talents and personality.

The merit of the new play joined with her large following in this city warrants the prophecy that her engagement at the National will be a thoroughly successful one. In her company this season besides Arthur Byron are Amy Ricard, Anita Rothe, Rosa Cooke, Mrs. Thomas Whitte, H. Hassard-Short, and John C. Savilla.

Columbia—Ezra Kendall in "The Vinegar Buyer."

"The Vinegar Buyer," which Herbert Hall Winslow has constructed for Ezra Kendall, and will be presented at the Columbia Theater next Monday evening, is woven about such a character as James Whitcomb Riley's rural friend, Joe Miller, whom the poet has taken for a subject of his poem of that name, a sketch familiar to every man, woman and child of intelligence in the land. Mr. Winslow, it is said, has been particularly successful in the construction of his play, and the chief character is said to be one which will attract the sympathy of his audience. The way in which he straightens out the difficulties arising between the rich girl and the heroic young man, the manner in which he frustrates the designs of the villainous lawyer, his faculty of mending matrimonial jars generally, and bringing order out of chaos, are a source of delight to the playgoer. Mr. Kendall will be supported by Charles Bowser, Marion Abbott, Edward Chapman, Lottie Alter, Walter Thomas, Ida Darling, Roy Fairchild, Rose Morris, John D. Garrick, Frank A. Howson, and Harry Hanlon.

Chase's—Polite Vaudeville.

Chase's vaudeville program next week will be noteworthy even in the annals of this progressive playhouse, as it will introduce the titled prima donna and premiere danseuse, the Countess Olga von Hatzfeldt, in whose veins flows the royal German blood of the Hatzfeldts. The countess is still in her teens, and is gifted with the typical blonde beauty of the Germans. She is the center of interest in the Ned Wainburn Jockey Girls' ensemble. "This is said to be one of the most pretentious, endurable acts in vaudeville, and is presented by sixteen vivacious young women."

Aside from this attractive feature, the bill will present George Felix and Lydia Barry in their farce, "The Doings of Johnny Jones." Another comedy event will be afforded by Louis Simon and Grace Gardner, who will present "The New Coachman," a complication of ludicrous mishaps and adventures. The Three Sisters Macarte will give their high wire performance, in which one of the girls does a serpentine dance on a wire suspended between the teeth of a wire suspended between a perilous height. Charles Wayne, comedian, will be an agreeable addition. Will F. Denry, the clever parodist, John Le Clair, and vitagraph views of the wonderful act of the Six Sisters Daine, the famous English acrobats, are the concluding numbers.

Lafayette—Pike Stock Company in "Nathan Hale."

Next week will be the concluding one of the Pike Theater Company's engagement at the Lafayette Opera House, where this popular organization will present Clyde Fitch's play "Nathan Hale." The play was made popular by Nat Goodwin, and has never been presented at popular prices. The Pike company has established itself in favor and much regret will be expressed that its stay at the Lafayette should not be longer. Byron Douglas will play the title role. Miss Hall is to be Alice Adams, and Thurlow Bergen Lebonon, a part he created as a member of the original company. "Nathan Hale" is a play of dramatic intensity, and contains much heart interest and sentiment. The Pike company is said to give a production that is even better than the offerings already made by the organization in this city.

The Pike company will give a special matinee of "In the Palace of the King" at the Lafayette Opera House (this afternoon).

Empire—Bijou Stock Company.

The offering at the Empire Theater next week will be a new burlesque by the Bijou stock company, and an olio of exceptional merit. The burlesque is said to be clever and will employ the full strength of the company and several new members.

The olio will include a new series of living pictures, posed by the feminine members of the stock company, the Delberg Sisters, character change artists; the Phelps Trio, Vera King, and the latest electrical sensation, the "Firefly," an electrical illusion. The act will be given at the Empire in the same elaborate manner as at Keith's and Proctor's houses in New York and Philadelphia.

Lycium—"The City Club."

Next week the "City Club" will come to the Lycium. The name of the curtain raiser is "On Board the City Club." Interest hinges upon two Gaiety Dancers who are introduced by two scenes of the "Cordill Aristocracy." The olio portion of the bill is in the capable hands of Messrs. Greeve and Green, Rose Carlin, Hawthorne and Burt Reid and Gilbert, and the three Lane Sisters. The chief feature of the entertainment is the presentation of the French pantomime sketch based upon the famous painting known as "Une Affair D'Honneur." The affair will have for its central figure Mlle. Jeanette Perre, the noted French actress, who comes to this country direct from Paris, bringing her entire company, together with scenery, music, and paraphernalia used by her in the production which had a remarkable run for four months at Le Petit Trianon. The conclusion of the entertainment is a burlesque entitled, "The Garden of Folly." In addition to the above, there will be a series of animated panoramic art productions.

Washington Symphony Concert.

The next concert of the Washington Symphony Orchestra will take place on Tuesday afternoon, March 10, at 1:15 o'clock at the National Theater. Hugo Heermann, the celebrated German violinist, will be the soloist. Herr Heermann is on his initial concert tour of this country.

So far, Mr. De Koven has been fortunate in securing as soloists artists who have not lost any of their freshness by too frequent performances in this city.

Herr Heermann has met with the warmest commendation from the musical critics in this country, whenever he has appeared. The critic of the "Berlin Zeitung" speaks of him as a "master not only of all things technical, but also one of intelligence and profound feeling. His tone is of noble and stinging quality. The difficulties of the Beethoven concerto were disposed of with amazing virtuosity." Others declare that his interpretation of Beethoven surpasses that of Joachim, that while Joachim reveals Beethoven in his gigantic height, Heermann does not lessen this effect, but brings these magnificent compositions directly into the hearts of his listeners.

Herr Heermann will be heard here in the famous Beethoven concerto in D major, and in "Scene de la Sardan" by Hubay, which is dedicated to Herr Heermann.

The orchestra has been rehearsing indefatigably under the immediate instruction of Mr. De Koven, and will demonstrate its further claim to be classed with the best organizations of its kind. The orchestral numbers will include an overture by Arthur W. Wright, to be played in America for the very first time, and entitled, "Taming of the Shrew." The orchestra will also play the peer Gynt Suite, opus 46, by Grieg, and the prelude of Act III of "Lohengrin."

Georgetown Orchestra.

The musical season in Washington would hardly seem complete without the series of concerts given annually by the Georgetown Orchestra.

The first concert of the present season is scheduled for Friday afternoon, March 20, at the Columbia Theater, when an entertaining program will be performed. The list of selections will include two

The song recital of Herr Anton Van Rooy will bring to Washington this season one of the great singers of the day. He has had heretofore two appearances in Washington—one in opera and one in recital, so he is not as well known as other singers of less distinction. Herr Van Rooy's work in New York has been in the principal bass parts in the Wagnerian operas. He sings parts such as Wotan in the Wagner tetralogy, and Hans Sachs in "Die Meistersinger." He has also appeared several times in New York in song recitals, and these events have been recognized as of great importance even in the crowded musical life of that city.

In consequence he was able to visit many portions of the Danish kingdom seldom visited by Americans. In connection with this lecture a 12 minute motion picture of the Paris-Berlin automobile race of 1901 will be shown.

ARIZONA SUN SHRINE.

An Arizona sun shrine has been received and placed on exhibition at the National Museum. The shrine consists of a mass of weather-worn stone, in shape much like the crescent. The specimen was found in an isolated spot on a sandy mesa, about forty miles west of Zuni Pueblo in Arizona. The stone is arranged as it was found, with some of the points of the horns up and held in place by stones propped against the back. In front are placed water-worn pebbles of quartzite. There are a million globules of oil to every cubic inch of vapor.

These vapors penetrate the deeper recesses of the lungs, and thereby come directly in contact with the diseased surface, and this explains why this treatment has been so successful with Consumption and Asthma.

Consultation is free. Call at the office and sanitarium at 730 Eleventh Street northwest, Washington, and inspect the hundreds of testimonials from cured patients.
